There were twenty-two members of the House absent yesterday afternoon when the body was called to order. Mr. Reeves, of Bartholomew, was excused on account of the death of a relative.

The committee on the part of the House to investigate the affairs of the State Treasurer's office was appointed vesterday, as follows: Messrs Patton, McMullen, Sayre, Gooding and Brownlee.

Hon. William H. English has extended an invitation to the Senators and Representatives and their wives to attend a reception at the Hotel English on Wednesday evening, given in honor of Senator Voorhees. Mr. Pendleton's bill for the relief of the

The Senate met yesterday morning, Senator May presiding in the absence of the said lot by the school corporation of the city of Lieutenant Governor. The question of appointing two pages to take the place of the two dismissed on Saturday, led to a call of the roll, and it was found that a quorum was not present. After a number of dilatory motions the body adjourned till 2 o'cloc's. The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of matters connected with the con struction of the new insane hospitals, a full account of which appears in our regular rerort.

If all reports be true there is trouble brewing in the city of Evansville. A petition signed by a number of the people will be presented to the Legislature, praying that the Metropolitan Police law be repealed. The petition, as we have it, states that the force of Evansville is a corrupt political in stitution, and unworthy the name and credit of the city. The memorialists are Republicans, and have a case of bad blood against the "Mets" of their city. Colonel Charles Denby, a distinguished lawyer and Damocrat of Evansyille, is in the city, and it is hinted he is here as an advocate of the present system of police.

Mr. McClellan, of Porter, has introduced a bill to require railroad companies to carry passengers on freight trains. Speaking of the measure, Mr. McClellan said such a law would be of great benefit to the people in the northern part of the State. Instancing his own case, he said that in returning home he was compelled to lay over all night, whereas he could get home without such loss of time if he were allowed the privilege of riding seven miles on a freight train. The passage of the bill would prove a great convenience to commercial travelers, who are all the members rising to their feet. A reso frequently delayed by the rule, which nearly lution, which had evidently been prepared all the railroads have adopted.

A bill has been introduced to require all for sale, to keep an account of every sale of liquor, sold in less quantities than a quart at a time, the name of the party obtaining the same and the purpose for which it wa to be used. The act requires the druggis to make a report of all such transaction every three months, and make oath that the same is true. The act further requires the attention of the Grand Jury of each county to be called to the act by the Judge of the Circuit Court, and a failure to comply with the same is made a penal offense, while any one making a false report shall be deemed guilty of perjury. Senator Fowler was asked vesterday if he hoped to get his bill, abolishing the State Bureau of Statistics, acted upon before the meeting of the caucus on Thursday evening. at which time the Chief of the Bareau will he nominated. The Senator replied that he hoped to do so, and that there is no doubt but the bill will go through the Sensie withou difficulty. Speaking of the cost of the Bu reau to the State he said that it cost O wan County $1,800 alone to collect the statistics required by the Bureau. As Owen is an | average county, the collection of the statisties costs the State ninety-two times that sum or $165,600. Add to this the cost of printing and distributing the blanks, the expenses of keeping an office, the salaries of a chief and a clerk and the cost of putting the work into book form and distributing the volnmes, and the total cost does not fall short of $200,000 annually for this department sione. "The greatest outrage upon the taxpayers," continued the Senator, "is found from the reports of the bureaus and institutions, and thus the people are made to pay twice for the same matter. For instance, the statistics concerning the insane, printed in the report of the Bureau of Statistics without change, so are statistics compiled by the State Board of Health and so is the financial showing of the Auditor of State. These things are put into book form and said for by the State, and then they are also put in the report of the Bureau of Statistics and sgain paid for, making the people pay twice for the same matter. In this way the report of the Bureau of Statistics, which would properly cover thirty or forty pages and make only a small pamphdet, is expanded till it fills a book, and is picely bound and sent out at a cost of $200,000 to the people. This disposition so make a book should be checked, and the Legislature is under obligations to cop it, when the practical benefits disproportioned to the cost. The matter contained in the report is the most

THE DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS. The Democratic members of the House of Representatives met in caucus last evening for the purpose of mapping out a line of policy to be pursued with reference to certain important measures now pending in the Legislature. The first is the civil rights bill introduced by Representative Townsend, of Wayne County, and the second the matters connected with the investigation of the State Treasury. With reference to the first the caucus was vary decided in its condemnation of several changes therein proposed. It was determined to vote against it. especially on account of the clarse providing for the intermarriage of blacks United States, and I appreciate the continued and whites. The members were also unanimous in the opinion that the school privileges now afforded the colored people are ample, especially in the cities where separate schools are established, and the colored children taught in all the branches. In country schools and smaller towns, the colored children are already admitted with the whites and there is no need of additional legislation with regard thereto.

The matters in connection with the pronosed State Tressury investigation were discarsed at length. The opinion was general that the House should stand by its action, and refuse to concur in the Senate amendment when the joint resstution is returned to that body to day. It was claimed that the very amendment adopted by the Senate was voted down in the House, and the House now proposes to await the report of the committee under its resolution "to ascertain whether an investigation is necessary." When the Senate amendment reaches the House to-day, action on it will no doubt be deferred till Friday | glad, fellow-citizens, that my fortunes have been next, when it will be the special order for p. m. There was little contrariety of opinion among the members, the caucus being very harmonious. GOVERNOR GRAY'S MESSAGE. The following message was received by the Senate from Governor Gray yesterday: EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Indianapolis, Jan. 26, 1885.

Gentlemen of the Senate: The lot on which the Indiana State Normal school Building is situated was formerly the Vigo County Seminary lot, and was on July 20, 1853 under and pursuant to an act of the General Assembly, approved June 12, 1853, sold by the Auditor and Treasurer of Vigo County to money by the failure of certain Indianapolis the Common School Corporation of the banks was reported from the committee to be payable in ten annual installments, as provented by the recommendation that vided by statute. On March 22, 1867, the city of Terre Haute executed its note for the balance of the principal > Terre Haute, to the county of Vigo for the use of the school fund. The County Auditor, on the order of the Commissioners of Vigo County, executed a deed to the city of Terre Haute for said lot, and the city conveyed the lot to the Trustees of the State Normal School as a part of the donation to secure the location of a Normal School at that city, and in which donation the School Trus> tees of the city of Terre Haute joined. In 188, the State, on the relation of the Attorney General, for the use of the school fund, institute: a suit on the notes against the city of Terre Haute in the Vigo Superior Court. The city demurred to the complaint, and the demurrar was sustained. The case was then appealed to the Supreme Court, by which the judgment of the Court below was affirmed. Court above held that the city of Terre Haute had no power to make the alleged purchase of the seminary lot, nor did it have the power to bind tself by the promissory notes given.

Therefore, the city had no title to the seminary lot when it made a deed for the same to the Prustees of the Normal School, nor the power to make such donation if it did have the title. It seems to be well settled that municipal cor porations have no power to make donations of corporate property, and certainly that School frustees have no no power to make a donation of property held by them in trust for school pur-

The equitable title to the lot is in the common corporation of the city of Terre Haute, and the State has no title to the ground on which the Indiana State Normal School Building stands. The matter is submitted to you for such exami nation and action as your judgment may demand.
A communication similar to this has been transmitted to the House of Representatives.

HAAC P. GRAY, Governor. SENATOR VOORHEES' SPEECH.

At 3:30 yesterday afternoon Senator Voorhees, ex-Senator McDonald, Hon. William H. English and Secretary of State Myers appeared upon the floor of the House, entering by the cloak-room, and their coming was the signal for a general clapping of hands, nearly before the coming of the distinguished San ator was sent up and read by the Clerk, ask druggists in the State, who keep intoxicants | ing for a committee to invite Senator Voor hees to address the body at 4 o'clock. As he was already present, the Speaker said the appointment of the committee would be dispensed with. The Senators at this time entered the hall, and Senator Voorhees was introduced, and said:

GENTLEMEN OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF IN-DIANA, AND LADIES AND GENTLEMEN-It Was with no purpose to interrupt your proceedings except or a few moments that I have called this afternoon to pay my respects to you. I did so earnestly desire to look upon this Legislature that I could not withstand the temptation to cross the moun tains and see you together as I saw most of you singly during the recent canvass of the State. I desire to renew my acquaintance so pleasantly made at that time, and to embrace the opportu my to express, as far as in the feeble power o words to express, the gratitude of my heart for your generous confidence in your recent setion. have been now for a number of years one of the representatives of the State of Indiana in the highest representative position she has to give. I can laim but one merit, and that, I believe, the peo de have granted, and that is that I have simed, under all circumstances, earnestly, and without evasion or reservation, to stand by the interests of the people of Indiana as I understood them. And in saying this I can speak without partisauship or lines of thought, for I can appeal to the searcher of our hearts that no man, woman or child of any party or of any complexion of politics or religion, or even of race and color, has ever applied to me for anything within my power to giant in the way of assistance that I have failed to respond to the best of my ability To my political friends on this occasion I ten-der my sincere, heartfelt thanks: to my political orpovents I have none but the best wishes and the utmost kindness to express,

The public man who expects to be successful must at least be faithful to the people. I think we are prone to underrate the perception or intelligence of the people; and how quickly they un-dersland whether a man is in earnest upon their side or not. When this Government was founded the great question prevailing in the minds of in the fact that a large part of the matter thousands of men was whether a government of incorporated into the book is taken bodily the people could stand; whather a government could be based upon the intelligence and the vir tue of the people unrestrained by kingly author ity or despotic power. It was a question yet un-solved in the history of men, but it has been solved in favor of the theories of our great Revoin the report of the asylum, are incorporated | lutionary ancestors. We have reached a period when it behooves us to look closely to the issues which will begin appearing; issues which involve the pawer and right to the power on the one hand, and the pretentions of corporate powers, monopolists, upon the other. In contests like these shall stand as I have heretofore, to the best of my knowledge and ability, on the side of the laboring masses of the country, in the fields of labor all the prosperity of this Nation is involved. The laboring interests of the country are to be carea for, and when I speak of these I speak with not the sligtest design of arraying, even in thought, the interests of labor and wealth; because in the business interests of this country lies the prosperity of the laboring man. The business interests of this country in the breadest sense embracing fluance, revenue, and all kindred interests are coundcted intimately with the prosperity of the laboring man, and the wise man, the faithful man in public position, is truest to his trust when he does not make hossie issues between different classes of industry and wealth, but tries to harmonize them and conse quently increase the prosperity of the country. I will not proceed into any extended remarks that printed it is the most useless of all reports to | State. You have in keeping here the interests of the greatest State, according to area and population, that lies under the American flag. Indiana is not one of the large States in territory, not one the large States in acreage or in square miles, but she ranks alongside of those who are the largest in the American Union. In point of diversified interests, agricultural products, manufacture resources and products, as well as educational advantages, Indiana is second to no State. In the last thirty years she has made more progress in educating her people, spent more money per capita, according to the number of men, wo-men and children in her territory, than any other State in the Union or any other Commonwealth

I am not a States-right man in the sense of those who once believed that a State has a right to break its relations with its Union. I never held such a thought in my breast but, at the same time, I have the beenest possible State pride in the State that I represent in the Senate of the compliment which this great State has bestowed upon me. You are the law-makers: you logislate for future wealth and future prosperity and happiness, and you have wanted me to work with you in the seat of the General Government in doing my duty there. can only say that I renew the vows that I took upon myself, when tomething more than seven years ago I took the oath of office to serve these people faithfully and well. Herein your presence now I renew these yows, that if life and health are granted me by the beneficent Providence for the next the means of the people for the next the server of the people for the next the server of the people for the next the server of the server of the next the server of the serve the next six years. I shall serve the interests of this State faithfully and well to the best of my

At the conclusion of Senator Voorhees' remarks loud carls were made for McDonald, and he responded as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE LEGISLATURE OF INDIANA-I came here to join with you in paying our respects to our distinguished Senator-elect, and not to un-dertake to address you. But, gentlemen, when Senator Voorbees referred to Indiana I knew it would be a cold day when Daniel W. Voorbees could not speak a good word for Indiana, and it would be a cold day that I would not be willing to listen to him, not for a brief time, but for any length of time, in discussing that subject. I am cast in this State, where I have lived now for over fifty-five years, and hope to live the balance of my days. One word I may say in addition to what Senator Voorhees has so well stated, that while Indiana is one of the most prosper-ous States in the Union, she has within her limits the largest proportion of hometeads and family homes of any State in the Union. We do not have large domains held by single persons; but farms or homes of honest industry, of independent American industry, are found all over our State. When we have a political contest, it is no boy's play. Our political adversaries are worthy of our steel, and sometimes they are able to vanquish us and take away the prize, but when the battle is over we are friends together and citizens of the State of Indiana Let me make one suggestion to you, that, perhaps, has not come into your mind: with reference to the late political contest that has secured for my distinguished friend the seat in the United States Senate, and ection in proportion to its voting population than any State in the Union. [Applause.] I am speaking by the book, for according to the statistics, well authenticated, of the entire possible vote in Indiana of every man who is qualified under the constitution and laws of our State to vote, we voted within 7 per cent. of that whole voting population. While no other State came anywhere near to us, Ohio was next; she lacked but 12 per cent. West Virginia followed her, and many States did not cast but half their votes. The returns show that while we were busy our adversaries were busy also, and every bush in the State of Indiana was shaken for the vote that might be behind it. My friends, for our party to have triumphed under such circumstances is certainly a glorious victory, and I hope our Republican adversaries will never have any cause to complain. I think we will take good care of them. They are our fellow-citizens: they are not alien enemies that by some strange choice settled among us. We can't freeze ourselves with

Now, my friends. I have spoken longer than I intended to do, so I thank you kindly. Hon. William H. English was then called He said it was not his wish to make a speech. That he had attended only for the purpose of hearing our big-hearted and bigbrained Senator, Daniel W. Voorhees. He said that in a tributing these characteristics to his friend Voorhees, he did not wish to be understood as speaking disparagingly of our other Senator, as he considered Senator Harrison a gentleman of ability and thought that Indiana, as a whole, could afford to be proud of the ability of her representatives in the United States Senate.

MILES & BARTON'S COMIC OPERA COMPANY. Lest evening the initial performance of the spectacular opera bouffe, "Orpheus and Eurydice," was given at Dickson's Grand Opera House to a large and enthusiastic sudience. This company contains a brilliant array of comique talent, whose fame had preceded it. The opera contains somewhat pretonnous music in portions that describe O ympian themes and passions of mock tragedy, but generally it is akin to that of the frisky renchman's former productions, with bright little fancies of melody slipping in and out that fairly sparkle with evanescent spirit. The tone of the spoken dialogue and the dress, the latter being excessively showy and rich, is generally free from immoral suggestion. Few can rivel Offenbach in light comedy. while none of his previous productions afford such opportunity as this for the display of spectacular effects and brilliant tableaux. As given by this company it was made to assume many elements of artistic success. while the points of weakness were few Miss Jennie Prince, as "Easydice," with French and Spanish songs and dances, has much style, dash, abandon and airine a such as that which caught the eye and ear of comic opera goers a half-score of years ago while Aimes was the queen of opera bonffe, Her bachspalian solo, with chorus, was finely given and encored. Miss Prince presents the character in its most popular phase, her conception of the mythic 'Eurydice' being dashing and attractive. Miss Belle Urquhart, "Venus. has unusual beauty coupled with an air of grace and gayety that served to perfectly interpret this beautiful creation of mythical life. As "Cupid" Miss Daisy Murdock displayed a petite form and a girlish face with mischievous dancing and dancing eyes. She is endowed with the agile grace of a fairy. Mr. Louis De Lang, the "Jupiter," is a comedian rad ant with humor and glows with buoyancy. He belongs to the best school of comedy-that of unforced gayety. The one weak link in an otherwise strong chain of comique talent was the "Orpheus" of Mr. Pepper. Neither is he an actor or singer. Mr. Davenport was well suited to the part of "Piuto." Miss Florence Bemister, cast as "Public Opinion." has an excellent contraito voice, besides being a good actress; Miss Lillie Allison, as the wife of "Juniter," is both an actress and an agreeable singer. They were seconded by a good array of minor talent, besides a fine chorus and augmented orchestra. It 19 elegantly put upon the stage as to scenery and stage effects, giving the tableaux a fine and brilliant spectacular effect. This even ing the performance will be repeated. THE MONARCH MUSEUM. This popular and well managed amusement resort opened the week, yesterday afternoon, with a very strong show in all departments. The attendance was very large both afternoon and night, and everybody was well entertained. In Curiosity Hall the attractions were the Nautch dancers. Japanese Princess and suite: Miss Ida Jeffries, one of the most beau-tiful and accomplished Circassian ladies, that has ever appeared here. Miss Annie expensive of all matter to get up, for it is I might make upon this and kindred thoughts. Jones, Barnum's Eean lady, the Bohemian nearly all tabular work, and after it is | One word, however, for our great and glorious glass blowers, Punch and July, etc. The stage performance was excellent from first to last. It opened with Miss Ella Welby, a fair vocalist, followed by J. H. Symonds, a clever aged negro impersonator: Georgia Kaine an excellent serio-comic: Le Monde, a wonderful high wire-walker; Master Frankie Jones, who made a great hit in his excellent impersonations: T. J. Herron, the best of all one-legged song and dance men; Arreca Murilla, a swest-voiced operatic vocalist, and the great and only Whitfield, polyphonist, or the man of many faces. This gentleman gives imitations of people one sess every day, and is truly the most versatile artist that has appeared here in many moons. In fact he is a whole show within himself. Go and see him. Same bill every afternoon and evening this week. Don't miss it. Admission to all only ten cents.

THE ZOO THEATER.

The Zoo opened the week last night to a fair house. The show was well received, though there was some disappointment. owing the detention of some of the performers caused by a railroad delay. However, the show was in the main good. The performance began with the laughable farce, "Vanity Fair," followed by "Karoly Ordey." the Hungarian juggler and balancer, who does an excellent act. Miss Hazel Blake "caught on" immediately, and created a furore amongst the audience. Miss Minnie Kaye did as well as usual. Gallager and Maurice kept and ence laughing all the time they were upon the stage Tae "Broom Brigade" is composed of eight ladies who execute the drill in fine style. Blake and Hamilton are as good if not better toan last week. Their style is very easy, their songs new and their acting very taking The Gillett Brothers are very fine. doing some very neat tumbling. The performance concluded with the laughable afterpiece, 'Our Boarders." Matinee to-day with performance every night throughout the week. NOTES.

The attractions at the Grand Opera House next week will be the Ford Opera Company first three nights, and Harrison & Gourlay last three nights.

The matinee prices for "Ophe is and Eurydice" to-morrow a gracon will be only twenty-five and fifty cents to all partso' the house. Take it in.

Commencing Toursday evening next, and centinuing for three nights and Saturday matinee, at English's, the attraction will be that is that Indiana cast more votes in the late | the Redmond-Barry combination in Charles Osborne's strong romantic drama, "A Midnight Marriage." Both play and company comes highly recommended by the press of other cities. The sale of seats opens this morning at the theater.

The advance sale of seats for the engagement for that stirling artiste, Miss Maude Granger, in J. K. Tillotson's great romantic play, "Lynwood," at the Grand the last half of this week opens this morning at 9 o'clock at the theater box-office and should be large. This is really one of the best attractions that will be here this season, and the company is extraordinarily strong. Miss Granger is a local favorite, and, as every one thows, is a most charming emotional actress. She will be ably supported by the talented young leading man, Mr. W. S. Hopkins, and Messrs. B. T. Ringold, W. H. Thompson, J. S. Francosur, Charles Norris, William Richardson, Miss Rachel Booth, Miss Lillian Chantore and others. There will be no advance in the prices.

Fire at the Insane Asylum. The alarm of fire at 2:30 o'clock was sent from the female department of the Insane Hospital. The fire was found by the watchman in the dry house building, which is separated from the main building. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have been a spark from the furnace. The damage will be considerable, but the extent could not be learned at the honr when the alarm was sounded, as the inmates and attendants were in an excited condition and everything was in confusion. The Fire Department responded promptly and the fire was kept within the walls of the dry rooms. It will doubtless cost the State several thousand dollars to repair the damage. At 3:15 the fire was under control, but still burning flercely. The parents became much alarmed and their shrieks helped to make it a wild scene. They, however, were kept reasonably within bounds, and no damage resulted in the
